

The Water Prairie Chronicles Features Bergenfield, NJ Author, Krystle Boateng

CARY, NC, September 1, 2022 – The Water Prairie Chronicles, a podcast created to encourage parents of children with disabilities, recently featured Krystle Boateng, the Bergenfield, NJ founder of Inside Ability Books and author of Bedtime, Sleep Time, Nighttime, Dreamtime, A Large Print Bedtime Story.

In the episode, Water Prairie's host, Tonya Wollum, dives deep into how to make children's literature accessible with Krystle Boateng. They discuss the Kickstarter program Mrs. Boateng used to launch Inside Ability Books and how it has allowed her to publish her first book, Bedtime, Sleep Time, Nighttime, Dreamtime, A Large Print Bedtime Story. Anyone who has struggled to read a book to a young child because of vision loss such as cataracts, visual impairments, or simply a broken pair of glasses will appreciate how accessible Boateng's books are!

Tonya Wollum says, "Being able to feature guests like Krystle Boateng is what sets the Water Prairie Chronicles podcast apart from other parenting and family podcasts. We're bringing practical resources to parents who have children with disabilities. Our episodes include interviews with individuals who have grown up with disabilities to help give parents a mentor experience that can help them make educated decisions in how they parent their children. We also feature organizations available to help support special needs families. Our goal is to help parents find encouragement by listening to the stories offered on the podcast."
